Competitor Scan — Lisbon Bakery / Brunch Landscape

Status: v0.1 — desk research pass Prepared: 2026-04-17 Source: client-provided shortlist (4 competitors) Scope: Lisbon bakery + brunch + specialty coffee market — direct and adjacent competitors

TL;DR — How lully 1661 sits in the landscape

AXIS	WHERE LULLY 1661 LANDS
Scale	3 stores — middle of the pack (bigger than doBeco / Padaria 110; smaller than Dear Breakfast / The Folks)
Category	Bakery + brunch + café — broadest offering of the four; closest analogue is doBeco
Positioning	Baroque heritage + 17th-century namesake — unique in this set; every competitor is some flavor of “modern minimalist”
Digital maturity (current)	Lowest — no live site, social-only
Digital maturity (post-launch)	Will jump ahead of doBeco and Padaria 110; pull level with Dear Breakfast; still behind The Folks on e-commerce depth

Strategic insight: the modern-minimalist look is commodity in Lisbon. Four of four competitors sit inside that aesthetic. lully 1661’s Baroque-contemporary direction (copperplate engravings + gold flourish + ink signature) is the only real differentiator in this set. That is a real brand moat, not just a design preference.

Competitor deep-dives

1. Dear Breakfast — dearbreakfast.com

ATTRIBUTE	DETAIL
Category	All-day brunch café (egg-centric)
Locations	6 — Chiado, Bica, Alfama, Santos, Príncipe Real, Marvila Bakehouse
Hours	8:00–16:00 most; Marvila Thu–Sun 11:00–22:00
Positioning	Modern minimalist — white-washed walls, Portuguese marble, exposed brick. “Properly cooked eggs, exquisite coffee and juice.”
Online order / delivery	Uber Eats delivery · reservation system built in · branded merch e-shop
Price visibility	Merch only (€12.50–€20); food menu is PDF download
Signature items	Benedict · caramel-banana pancakes · scrambled eggs with truffles
Languages	PT + EN (bilingual, PDFs in both)
Platform	Webflow (custom build)

Threat level to lully: medium-high. They own “Lisbon all-day brunch” in digital presence and have the scale to back it. Their brunch menu at Marvila Bakehouse is exactly the space lully Anjos is moving into on 2026-05-15.

What we learn: Bilingual PT/EN with downloadable menu PDFs is table stakes. Reservation + Uber Eats is table stakes.

2. The Folks — thefolks.pt

ATTRIBUTE	DETAIL
Category	Specialty coffee + brunch + roastery
Locations	6 — Chiado, Alfama, Sé, Blue Street, Santos, Belém
Positioning	Community + quality — “spaces where people feel at home.” World’s Top 100 Coffee Shops 2025/26 (#88).
Online order / delivery	Full e-commerce — coffee beans, equipment, gift cards, B2B wholesale. Worldwide shipping (free >€60).
Price visibility	Full — coffee beans €16–€30+, drip €3, gift cards €30–€250
Menu categories	Coffee origins · equipment · merch · gift cards · brunch (visible in menu, not fully detailed)
Signature positioning	“Exceptional coffee and amazing food, every day”
Languages	PT + EN
Platform	Shopify (thefolks.pt/cdn/shop/)

Threat level to lully: medium. Different primary category (coffee-first vs. bakery-first), but same geographic footprint and clearly the benchmark for Shopify bakery/café e-commerce in Lisbon.

What we learn (big one): 1. Shopify works in this market — this is the closest direct validation for our platform choice. 2. The B2B wholesale pattern maps 1:1 onto lully’s “Lully Inside” section. Their page structure is worth a closer look. 3. Gift cards + worldwide shipping — both in our Phase 2 scope. We should sanity-check our v1.1 cutover against how The Folks handles these.

3. doBeco — do-beco.com · blocked to scrapers; info via press

ATTRIBUTE	DETAIL
Category	Artisanal bakery + brunch + specialty coffee
Locations	3 — Estefânia (original, R. Passos Manuel 106A) · Santos (R. São João Mata 18) · Casal Ribeiro
Positioning	Origin story — founded during pandemic lockdown in a garage by chef António José de Mello; French + American baking tradition
Online order / delivery	Site exists but was un-scrappable in the desk pass — needs manual browse
Menu signals	Ovos tornados (brioche + kimchi + omelet) · NY Popcorn roll · Sesame and Lime Danish · Passionfruit Amman Kouign · Codfish with Cream Croissant · Matcha and Strawberries Tart · bagels
Hours / volume	Claim to operate 24/7 for bakery production
Platform	Unknown (blocked). Likely WordPress or Webflow.

Threat level to lully: high. Closest direct competitor — same scale (3 locations), same bakery + brunch positioning, same Lisbon geography. Their strong chef-driven pastry story is meaningful. Started during the pandemic → only 3 years old → they're the “young upstart” vs. lully’s “2022 + 17th-century heritage” story.

Direct read-across: - Pricing position: fairly premium (full brunch plates, specialty pastries) - What they don't have: the Baroque heritage narrative, the multi-store multi-role differentiation (Anjos flagship vs. satellite), festive/events line - What lully should do: own “heritage craft bakery + Anjos brunch room” as a position that doBeco can't copy

4. Padaria 110 — @110padaria · Instagram-only

ATTRIBUTE	DETAIL
Category	Neighborhood artisanal bakery (sourdough + viennoiserie)
Locations	1 — Rua Filipe Folque 28B, Picoas
Hours	Tue–Sat 8:00–15:00 — note the same 5-day pattern as Beato
Positioning	“Padaria da redondeza — pão lento e viennoiserie das mãos francesas e portuguesas” (“Neighborhood bakery — slow bread and viennoiserie from French and Portuguese hands”)
Online order / delivery	None — no website
Menu signals	Sourdough (wheat, wheat + oat, gluten-free) · baguette tradition · croissants (caramel-edged) · napolitanas · palmiers · honey/salt puffs
Rating	4.8 / 5 on Restaurant Guru (189 reviews)
Platform	None — Instagram-only (894 followers)

Threat level to lully: low. Different scale (1 store, neighborhood-focused), no digital ambition, small audience. But their cult local reputation (4.8 / 5) suggests Lisbon rewards the “slow bread + French technique” pitch strongly — validation for lully’s 48h-fermented sourdough narrative.

The positioning map

Right after launch, lully 1661 jumps roughly to the level of Dear Breakfast on digital maturity — with a stronger brand identity (Baroque heritage) than any of the four.

Implications for the SOW / build

1. Shopify is the right platform. The Folks' success on Shopify (ranked world top-100) is the closest benchmark. No Webflow/WordPress justification needed.
 2. PDF menu downloads (à la Dear Breakfast) are a low-cost table-stakes addition — worth adding to v1.0 if client has menu PDFs ready.
 3. Uber Eats delivery was flagged Phase 2 in our SOW. Given Dear Breakfast has it, we should keep it in Phase 2 but mention in the SOW discussion that it's a known gap vs. direct competitors.
 4. B2B wholesale page pattern — The Folks has a mature version; we should study it before finalizing the Lully Inside page structure.
 5. Brand differentiation is already in hand. Four competitors, four variants of modern minimalism. The Baroque-contemporary visual direction is genuinely the clear lane.
 6. Anjos flagship positioning — lean hard into “Anjos = the brunch room.” doBeco has no single flagship; Dear Breakfast has 6 equal stores; the Anjos-as-flagship story is differentiated.

Recommended next steps

- ☐ Manual browse doBeco site (can't desk-scrape; needs real browser or manual screenshots) — see how they present their pastry chef-driven story; lully can counter-position with the 1661 heritage
 - ☐ Visit The Folks' B2B wholesale page in detail before we design Lully Inside
 - ☐ Ask client whether the “padaria da redondeza” neighborhood positioning (Padaria 110) should be a conscious target for Campo de Ourique or Beato (both smaller, more residential than Anjos)
 - ☐ Check whether any competitor publishes their sourdough fermentation hours — if not, lully's 48h claim is a genuine marketing hook

Note on scope

This scan is discovery / pre-engagement work, not in-scope against the v1.0 or v1.1 build. It informs the visual direction, the SOW, and the sales conversation — but shouldn't bill as a separate line item unless the client wants a follow-up deeper analysis (e.g. per-competitor screenshot audit, keyword/SEO benchmark, social-media analytics).
